"We live in a world that seems to be forever changing... a new world with dynamic challenges that requires young enthusiastic adults capable of playing positive and fruitful roles in organizations and communities.

Symbiosis School for Liberal Arts (SSLA) strongly believes in the importance of a comprehensive education in preparation for career advancement and the exercise of leadership. We believe organizations and society have an urgent need for creative individuals who will readily learn on the job, after having been exposed to a broad and comprehensive education.

Based on our experiences with liberal arts in the last 17 years, we know that a sound liberal arts education provides a much needed cultural orientation to the world in which we live. It equips students with ideas, analytical and communication skills, and global perspectives along with the ability to synthesize knowledge and make informed value judgments.

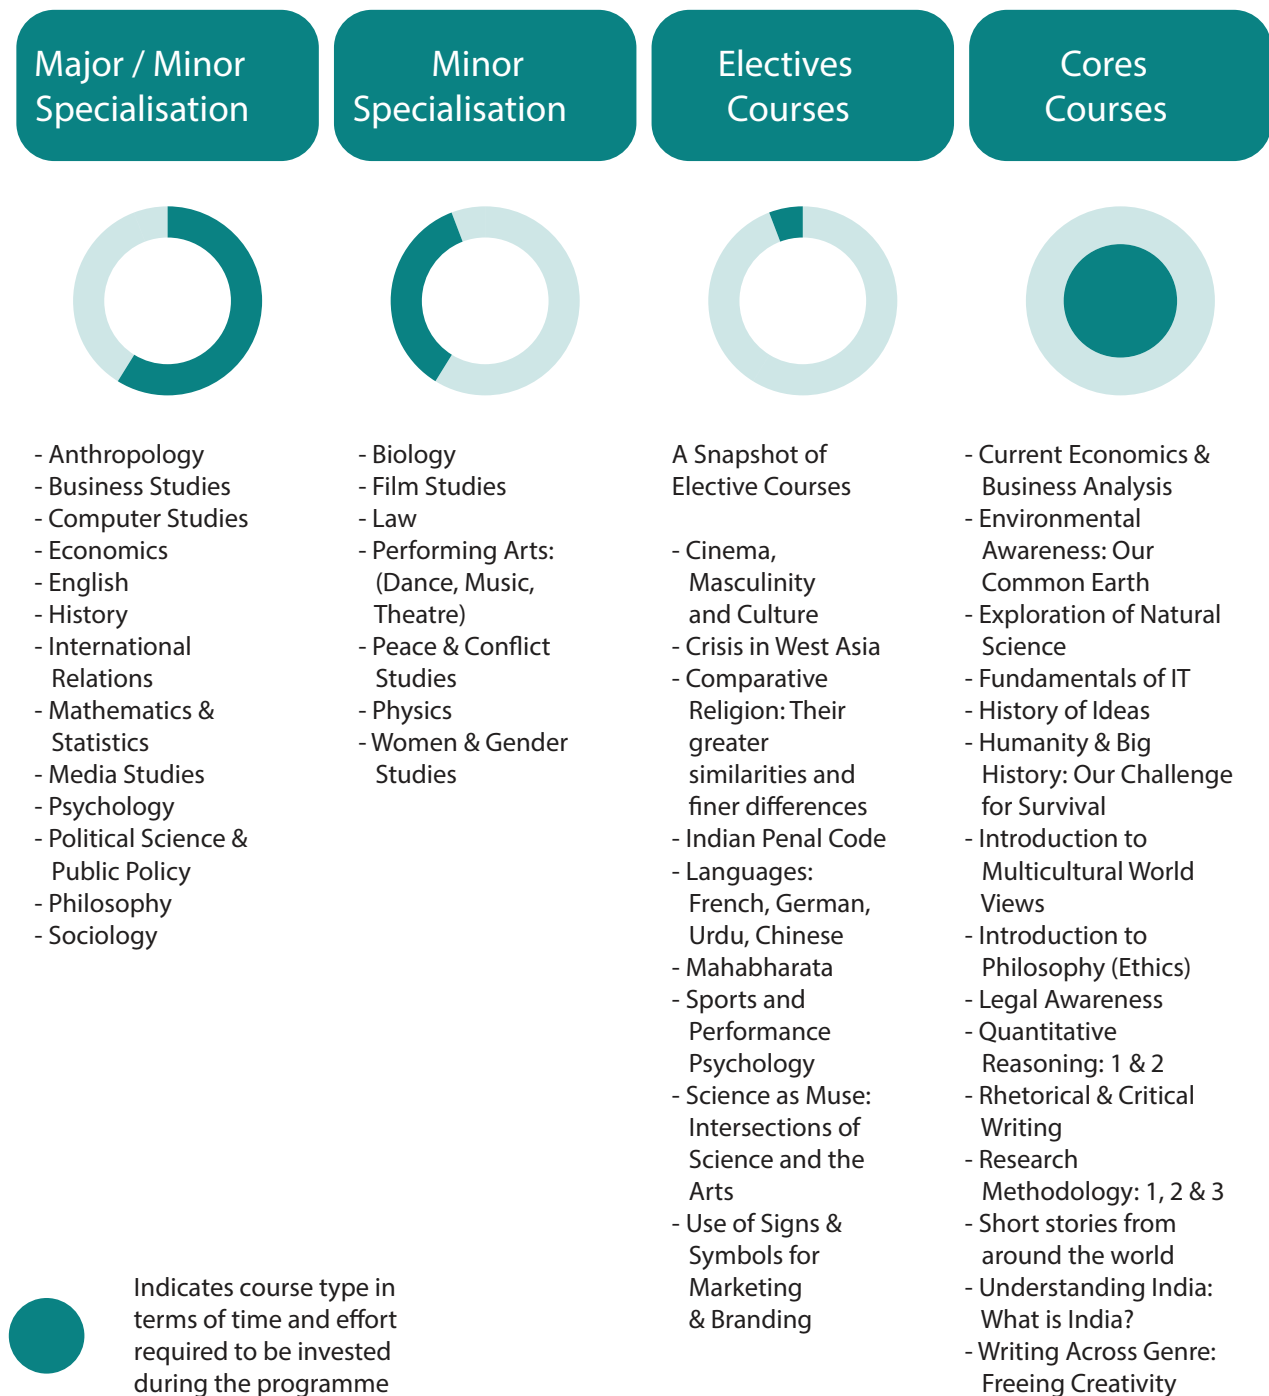

Our distinctive 4-year honours programme will also help students learn the importance of being personally and socially responsible, something so necessary to grow into leaders of substance, and be happy and successful in their future personal, community and professional lives."
