Course Description:

From Marxism to Post-Marxism: Critical Discourses, is a course that builds on the introductory course on Marxism. This advanced level course on Marxism intends to make the students familiar with the growth of Marxist methodology, its contribution in the social sciences, and the important challenges it has faced and still continues to face. The students will engage in discussions regarding important contributions of Marxism, both as a theory and as a discourse, extending till the 20th century, in terms of philosophical and critical enquiry. The students will not necessarily be referring to texts written by Marx and later 'classical' Marxists. The course will use Marxism as an intellectual tradition, and draw concepts, ideas, and practices from it, and analyze them in the larger socio-political and historical debates and practices.
